FAMILY FAVORITE HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS RETURNS TO THE LONE TREE ARTS CENTER WITH A NEW STORYLINE FOR 2019

LONE TREE, CO – When we say that this year’s production of Home for the Holidays has something for everyone, we’re not joking! Break dancers! Vintage WWII era singers! Hip hop! A gospel choir! A brass band! A children’s choir! And of course, it wouldn’t be Home for the Holidays without the couple of the season, Mrs. Claus and Santa himself! Throw in an all-new storyline to warm even the most Grinch-like heart, and you have a production that you won’t want to miss. Home for the Holidays returns to the Lone Tree Arts Center Wednesday, December 18 through Sunday, December 22, with a special sensory friendly performance on Sunday, December 22 at 7pm.

Home for the Holidays is produced and directed by Chris Starkey in association with the Lone Tree Arts Center. This year’s headliners include fan favorite hip hop dancer Jonathan Jaramillo, along with Denver favorite Sheryl Renee, vintage WWII era singers The Denver Dolls, Brothers of Brass. Singers Greg Jacyszyn, Christine Starkey, and Randy Chalmers join Santa (Seth Caikowski) and Mrs. Claus (Margie Lamb) to sing seasonal favorites along with a fantastic band led by Trent Hines. School of Breaking shows off their b-boy and b-girl talents, and elves Kierra Archuleta, Natalie Beaumont, Izzy Crane, Cecilja Jacyszyn, Anna Kates, Madison Nguyen, and Brooklyn Starkey get into some family-friendly mischief. Come early to hear holiday carols from the children’s choir in the lobby prior to the show.

In the Arts Center’s ongoing commitment to providing accessibility to the arts, there will be a sensory friendly performance on December 22 at 7pm. The sensory friendly performance (only $25) will be modified to accommodate people with autism and other sensory concerns. There will be no startling noises or visually over-stimulating components. Sound levels will be lower than normal and lights in the audience will be higher than normal, ensuring audience members can see each other. Audience members will be free to come and go if need be (there will be a "quiet room" available) and will be asked to wave hands rather than clapping.

Join the LTAC for this incredible collaboration of singers, dancers, musicians, and tricksters as we welcome you home for the holidays!
