Lisa Downs
“Frosted Wings”
$450

Image Description: This particular shot has been on my bucket list so I set out early in anticipation of capturing a frosted wings portrait shot. It was below zero and very early in the a.m. when I went out. The trees were frosted and crystal perfect. I spotted several mature and immature eagles in the trees beside Windsor Lake. This one appeared to be soaking up the rising sun that was beginning to melt the frost from its wings. A very empowering experience!

Location of Image: Windsor Lake, Windsor, CO

Type of Camera and Lens Used: Canon 6D Mark II, Tamron 150-600mm

Camera Settings Used: 1/2000 sec  f6.3  @600mm 640 ISO

Artist Statement: I am a photographer, trauma therapist and survivor, not necessarily in that order. My desire is to capture images that tell a story or at least part of a story that might resonate with your own life’s story. It is my hope that the image touches a place inside that solidifies the image in your heart.

Website/Social Media Accounts: Flyingeaglephotography.pixieset.com/